Terry Hickey Raises Over $37,300 From More Than 175 Contributors In His Bid For The 10th District City Council Seat

Baltimore, MD – Terry Hickey reported in his campaign finance report today that he has raised $37,348 to support his efforts to be elected as the 10th District’s next City Councilman.

“This is incredible,” said Terry Hickey “I am so humbled by the overwhelming support from the 175 people and businesses, most of them local, who contributed to this campaign. It is a truly grassroots campaign and shows that indeed, it’s time for a change!”

“I am impressed,” said Jeff Cavallo of the South Baltimore area. “The fact that so many people contributed financially to this campaign is a sign that people want change – and that they believe Terry Hickey can do the tough job of being our City Councilman.”

With less than 30 days to go until election day, the Friends of Terry Hickey are holding another fundraiser on August 23, at the American Visionary Arts Museum. In addition, there are 5 forums scheduled in the district where residents can compare candidates.

“I am confident voters will emerge from those forums knowing that Terry Hickey is the person to be their next Councilman,” said Odette T. Ramos, Campaign Manager.
